

ARREST THREE FOR THEFT OF U. S. WHISKEY

Three Men Charged With Stealing 30 Cases Of Liquor Held By Government Here last February

Investigations concerning the theft of 30 cases of government whiskey from a warehouse here last February culminated yesterday in the arrest by officials of the department of justice of William Davis, of Tucson, D. B. Driscoll, of Phoenix, and Edward Carter, colored porter at a local hotel, who will be charged, it was said last night, with the theft of government property. Mrs. Davis and one or two others who were arrested at the same time were released later.

In the possession of Driscoll, when he was arrested, according to the officials, was a quantity of bonded whiskey, corn whiskey and tequila. The identity of the bonded whiskey as that stolen in February has been certified by its brand, "Saffell." The only liquor of this brand that was ever brought into the state of Arizona, officials said last night, was the whiskey that was being held in the warehouse here pending the receipt of orders from Washington for its destruction. The case in which the liquor was held as evidence having gone to the supreme court for a final decision. The order for the destruction of the whiskey came a few days after the theft, officials said.

Immediately after the warehouse here was robbed last February, the chase for the liquor and those who had taken it was begun. About half of the stolen property was traced to Tucson. It was said yesterday, where it was hidden, although government officials were certain that in the course of time some of it would appear. The investigation was being carried on also in Phoenix, and on Wednesday a government official saw Davis and Driscoll in conversation here. The reputation of Davis was known, it is said, and a close watch was kept upon him.

Soon after Carter negotiated with Davis for the purchase of some liquor, it was said, and this negotiation led to the arrest of both Mrs. Davis was also arrested and placed in jail. While in jail she talked through the window to a man whom she thought was an acquaintance, and she told him that Driscoll was holding some "stuff" at a house on West Washington street. The presumed acquaintance was an official of the department of justice, who went immediately to the address given by Mrs. Davis, 2243 West Washington street, and found Driscoll dragging a trunk across the alley into a neighboring yard. In the trunk was the "Saffell" whiskey, some corn whiskey, and a quantity of tequila. Other arrests had been made in the meantime, but when all the strings in the case had been brought together, Davis, Driscoll and Carter were held. Interest in the case was heightened

DR. HUGHES ASKS CHANGE OF VENUE

Petition for a change of venue from the court of Justice P. R. Mitten in Buckeye to the court of Justice Henry J. Sullivan in Phoenix was filed yesterday in the case of Dr. Harry A. Hughes, Sr., who is charged with assisting a prisoner to escape from the Buckeye jail on Wednesday morning. An affidavit of prejudice accompanied the petition, which was filed by Alexander Baker.

Dr. Hughes, Sr., is charged with leaving the doors of the Buckeye jail unlocked following a visit to his son, Dr. Harry A. Hughes, Jr., thus permitting, it is alleged, the latter to escape jail. Dr. Hughes, Jr., had been placed in the Buckeye jail on Tuesday night by Constable Jay Jones on a charge of disturbing the peace. The cases had been set for a hearing this morning at 10 o'clock before Justice Mitten.

GERMIDICIDE CO. WINS 'DENVER MUD' CASE IN FEDERAL COURT

A decree in the case of the Germicide company against the Denver Mud Chemical company, the return of a number of indictments by the grand jury, and the beginning of the trial of J. J. Adkinson, who had pleaded guilty to a charge of manufacturing intoxicating liquor were features of the session of the United States district court here yesterday.

The case of the Germicide company against the Denver Mud Chemical company hinged upon the alleged unlawful use by the latter corporation of the term "Denver Mud," which was said by the plaintiff to have been a trade name used by the Germicide company to distinguish one of its proprietary medicines. The Denver Mud Chemical company, it was alleged, manufactured and sold a compound under the same name, which was given as an infringement of the rights of the plaintiff and a proof of unfair competition.

Judgment was awarded by Judge Sawtelle to the plaintiff in a decree which restrains the defendant from using the name "Denver Mud" in any manner and which awards to the plaintiff, in addition to the costs of the suit, such damages as an examination will disclose the plaintiff to have suffered.

The indictments returned by the grand jury are as follows: Wilmer M. Kuhn and Arthur Chandler were indicted on charges of bringing a stolen Ford automobile from Los Angeles to Phoenix in violation of the statute prohibiting the interstate traffic in stolen machines. Chandler pleaded guilty and will be sentenced later. Kuhn pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for today.

Chester E. Ball and James M. Eber were indicted on charges of having stolen two barrels of grain alcohol from the Santa Fe depot here about six weeks ago. Ball and Eber pleaded not guilty and will be tried today.

Clarence Neilson was indicted on a charge of having sold intoxicating liquor to an Indian, Tony Hote. His trial will be held also today. Velmore Parcier and Milton Frazier, soldiers from Fort Huachuca, were indicted on charges of having brought a stolen automobile to Phoenix from Mexico. Both men pleaded guilty and will be sentenced later.

William T. West and Ross Chivers were indicted on charges of having in their possession a barrel of grain alcohol which they knew had been stolen. Both pleaded not guilty and their trial was set for today.

J. J. Adkinson, charged with W. W. Barrett with having manufactured intoxicating liquor, pleaded not guilty and the case went to trial, being continued over until today. Barrett pleaded guilty and sentence will be pronounced later.

The case of the United States against Robert L. Morton, who was accused of having violated the provisions of the espionage law by circulating copies of a book, "War What For?" in Jerome, was dismissed on motion of the United States district attorney. The case against W. F. Burleson also was dismissed.

The case of the government against Lucile Calvin, charged with violation of the federal act against the interstate transportation of stolen automobiles, was continued until the next term of court, as was the case against W. C. Hackett.

Bessie Tanner, charged with having violated the federal narcotic act, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail.

The comparatively light sentence was given because of the fact that the defendant had been in jail for about three months previous to the return of the indictment.

OLD TIME MINSTREL SHOW WELL STAGED BY BUSINESS WOMEN

The old-time formula of "Good evening, Mr. Bones," which has distinguished minstrel shows since the time that Messrs. Weber and Fields were in short trousers, gave way last evening at the high school auditorium to "Good evening, Miss Virginia," as the curtain rose on the minstrel-ettes of the Business and Professional Woman's club. The offering was presented as an original minstrel oddity, and in cleverness, verve and entertainment was all that the most fastidious theatergoer could desire.

The show was divided in the orthodox manner, into two parts and a comedy sketch. The "musical melange" which opened the performance was under the direction of Mrs. Grace C. Yarwood, with "six happy ink-spots of joy" assisting her ably. The "ink spots" were Mrs. M. H. Williams, Miss Bernita Hanson, Mrs. Icie L. Harrison, Mrs. Vivian Nickerson, Mrs. Bernice Insley and Mrs. Lillian Cronin. Of particular merit were the solo offerings of Mrs. Russell, who sang "My Hero," Miss Chapman in a "Whistling Solo," Mrs. Cronin in "I'm on the Choo-choo," and Mrs. Icie L. Harrison in "Alexander's Band is Back."

Following the melange there was a short intermission and then came the "solo." The dancing of Ruth Tracy, Rosalind Harbeck, and especially of Little Mary Mar won instant favor with the audience, as did the other members of this part of the show. Mrs. Nickerson and Mrs. Cronin had a screamingly funny due. "After the Party," Miss Alice Chapman, whose whistling has become a feature in local entertainment circles, gave a perfect rendition of her art, and a monologue by Mrs. Bernice E. Insley, "Thistle-down from Tickletown," tickled the audience even more than its title indicated.

"The Darktown Fiddler's Ball," a satirical satire in black and yellow, brought the program to a close. The show will be repeated this evening.

JURY CONDONES BITING IN LAW

It is now possible for you men to even up things with your mother-in-law without in any manner violating the law. Bite her. The courts won't interfere or call you to an accounting. That is the decision of a Texas jury. And juries as you may have observed rarely nurse the law.

One Gonzales, of the Lone Star state, finding himself in a family tiff, bit "mamma," bit her right on the neck. He was haled into court where a jury of his peers, after due presentation of the evidence, decided that he was not guilty of any offense. The man was freed and an important precedent established.

With such a privilege you should be able to make her keep her place. If she won't bite her! But before you follow this advice too literally it would be prudent to put in a call for the doctor and an ambulance.—Tulsa World.

In the club last night the comedian was bantering a tall slip of a young actor. "Ah, well," said the latter with great self-satisfaction, "so far the profession has brought me bread and butter."

"And eggs, Arthur—and eggs!" said the comedian.—London Opinion.
